

Hon-Den Trail - 7.7 miles

From Honley to Denby Dale, you start with a climb up to Farnley Tyas through Hey Wood reaching magnificent views to Castle Hill. From Farnley Tyas you drop into the valley from Netherton, go up to Storthes Hall Park and into Boothroyd Woods. The route descends to Thunder Bridge wildflower meadows. You walk upstream to the village, then follow Shelley Dike before crossing it and going up the hill to Shepley. Upper Cumberworth is the highest point before dropping into the Dearne Valley and Denby Dale.

Variations at Point A

The trail can be made shorter by finishing at Shepley making it is 5m walk. Alternatively, it can be varied by taking the Shep-Den trail back to Denby Dale station which takes you through Shepley Village. The combined mileage of this variation is 8.7m

Points of Interest along the way

Farnley Tyas

The route up to Farnley Tyas is blessed with magnificent views of Castle Hill. The village itself is a good place to take stock as it has an Inn. Leaving the village takes you down to Netherton where there are also amazing easterly views towards Emley Moor mast.

Thunder Bridge Meadows

You reach the meadows when you leave Boothroyd Woods next to Thunder Bridge Dike. The trail turns R but to the left are wildflowers meadows. Spring or early summer is the best time to see them at their best.

Amenities

Honley station is 1m away from the village centre and supplies so it is best to plan accordingly. The first place for refreshments and such is the Golden Cock Inn in Farnley Tyas. Thereafter there is the Woodman Inn at Thunder Bridge with nothing else on route till Denby

Dale. Minor diversions can be made to Shepley or Upper Cumberworth where supplies can be found.

The Route

The walk is one of ups and downs following river valleys, the main being Thunder Bridge Dike. The ascents are not too hard and there are few stiles so easy going. The path at the side of the Dike can be muddy but this is very weather dependent, everywhere else the conditions are fairly good. Total ascent and descent is 102ft and 923ft, the highest point being Upper Cumberworth at 827ft. Allow 4 to 4.5 hours walking time.

Permissive Access

There is permissive access to Boothroyd Woods through Storthes Hall park, points B to C. There is also permissive access from Thunder Bridge Meadows to the village, points D to E.
